The Millennium Challenge Account (MCA) is a Presidential initiative to reduce poverty through economic growth in poor countries. The MCA provides assistance only to countries that have already created the conditions for growth by ruling justly, investing in their people, and encouraging economic freedom, with a particular emphasis on anti-corruption. The 2006 Budget request of $3 billion makes a significant third year increase in the MCA towards fulfilling the President's commitment of $5 billion per year. In its third year of operation, the number of countries participating in the MCA will increase from the 30 that are currently eligible for either MCA or threshold program assistance. In 2006, country eligibility will broaden to include states between the current IDA per capita income cutoff and the World Bank's definition of lower middle income countries. Once selected for the MCA, each country will develop a plan for using MCA resources with input from the public and private sector and then work in partnership with the Millennium Challenge Corporation (MCC) to negotiate a contract spelling out the projects and the accountability mechanisms to be followed. In furtherance of achieving their growth objectives in a transparent and accountable way, the MCC will assist countries to assess and improve their financial management, fiscal transparency, and statistical capacity to manage MCA funds and measure results. The MCC will approve multi-year proposals that have clear measurable objectives, a sound financial plan, and benchmarks for assessing progress toward the achievement of the objectives.

This account supports U.S. foreign policy objectives by providing economic assistance to allies and countries in transition to democracy, supporting Middle East peace negotiations, and financing economic stabilization programs, frequently in a multi-donor context. Key objectives include:

1) Supporting strategically significant friends and allies through assistance designed to increase the role of the private sector in the economy, reduce government controls over markets, enhance job creation, and improve economic growth.

2) Developing and strengthening institutions necessary for sustainable democracy. Typical areas of assistance include technical assistance to administer and monitor elections, capacity-building for non-governmental organizations, judicial training, and women's participation in politics. Assistance is also provided to support the transformation of the public sector to encourage democratic development, including training to improve public administration, promote decentralization, strengthen local governments, parliaments, independent media and non-governmental organizations.

3) Strengthening the capacity to manage the human dimension of the transition to democracy and a market economy and to help sustain the neediest sectors of the population during the transition period.

This assistance provides grants for military education and training to military and civilian students from foreign countries. In addition to helping these countries move toward self-sufficiency in defending themselves, this program also exposes foreign students to American democratic values, particularly military respect for civilian control and for internationally recognized standards of individual and human rights.

This proposed new account will enable the Secretary of State to respond quickly and effectively to stabilize and begin reconstruction efforts in foreign countries or regions affected by conflict or civil strife. This appropriation will provide resources that can be drawn upon immediately to address a range of needs including support for transitional security, rule of law, reconstruction requirements, humanitarian activities, economic assistance programs, and assistance to restore effective governance. These uses will require a determination by the Secretary of State that will set in motion a coordinated U.S. Government effort to ensure the focused and effective application of resources to stabilize countries or regions. That effort would include mobilization of goods and services obtained in advance via this fund for use on a contingency basis. The proposal also seeks authority to allow for the use of resources in other accounts if necessary to meet conflict response demands and authority to allocate funds as appro-

The International Bank for Reconstruction and Development (IBRD or World Bank) provides financing and technical assistance to support infrastructure investment and policy reform. IBRD operations are designed to promote sustainable economic growth, increase productivity growth, reduce poverty, and raise living standards, including through targeted investments in basic human needs, private-sector development, and core policy reforms.

During 2004, IBRD made new commitments of $11 billion and gross disbursements were $10.1 billion. Since its establishment in 1945, IBRD has made loans totaling $394 billion. No request is being made for IBRD capital in 2006.

IBRD acts as trustee for the Global Environment Facility (GEF) Trust Fund. GEF provides technical assistance and partial funding for developing country investments designed to provide global environmental benefits by reducing international water pollution and ozone depletion, and by promoting biodiversity and energy conservation and, more recently, by reducing persistent organic pollutants, which are of particular concern in the northern United States. With its highly specific focus on global environmental issues—where both costs and benefits are shared across international borders—GEF occupies an important niche in the system of international development institutions. Its basic mission is to support innovative and cost-effective pilot investments whose design and environmental benefits can be duplicated (and financed) elsewhere. Since its inception in 1991, GEF has allocated over $4.5 billion in grants, leveraging over $14 billion in co-financing, to support more than 1,300 projects in over 140 countries.

Under strong U.S. leadership, agreement was reached on policy reforms for the third replenishment (GEF-3) to further improve GEF's performance, including development of a performance based allocation system, development of a new private sector strategy, and the creation of an independent monitoring and evaluation (M&E) unit. Thus far, only one of these reforms—the creation of an M&E function—has been implemented.

The initial U.S. commitment to the GEF in 1995 amounted to $430 million, and the second replenishment (GEF-2) agreed to in 1998, also included a U.S. commitment of $430 million in four installments over the 1999-2002 period. The third replenishment (GEF-3) agreed to in 2002 included a U.S. commitment of $430 million in four equal installments ($107.5 million) from 2003 to 2006, plus an incentive contribution of $70 million in the fourth year provided GEF meets specific performance targets. However, GEF did not meet the conditions for the $70 million contribution because it did not establish an operational performance-based allocation system by the fall 2004 deadline. In 2006, the Administration is requesting $107.5 million toward the fourth and final installment of the U.S. contribution to GEF-3.

The International Development Association (IDA) is a member of the World Bank Group and provides development financing on highly concessional terms and grant terms to the world's poorest nations. These countries are primarily in Sub-Saharan Africa and South Asia, but also in Latin America, Eastern Europe, and the former Soviet Union. IDA places special emphasis on achieving sustained productivity growth and poverty reduction, and particularly strives to meet the exceptional development challenges faced by Africa within its broad commitment to support all the world's poor countries. IDA is the single largest source of multilateral lending extended on concessional terms to developing countries. Projects have to meet the same economic, financial, and environmental standards as other World Bank projects. IDA resources for new lending are increasingly provided by earnings and repayments of existing loans and are augmented by new donor contributions through periodic "replenishments."

During 2004, IDA made new commitments of $9.1 billion, and IDA's gross disbursements were $6.9 billion. Since its establishment, IDA has made commitments totaling $151 billion.

Under the fourteenth replenishment (IDA-14), IDA will provide total resources for prospective new commitments of $35 billion over the 2006–2008 period. Through the IDA-14 replenishment negotiations, U.S. leadership secured a number of commitments for reform of IDA, most crucially resulting in a significant increase in grant financing, an expanded results measurement system, and progress toward greater transparency. IDA will provide approximately 45 percent of its total resources to the poorest countries as grants. Grant eligibility will be determined on the basis of debt sustainability with 47 countries (out of 60 IDA-only eligible countries) receiving grants. Furthermore, IDA committed to a robust performance measurement system, which will include country outcome indicators, sector-level output indicators (health, education, water supply, and transportation), country-level institutional indicators, and project-level indicators. The 2006 Budget consists of $950 million for the first of three scheduled contributions under IDA-14. The U.S. pledge is $2.85 billion over the three years (roughly 14 percent of total donor contributions) and is based on the reform commitments described above.

The Multilateral Investment Guarantee Agency (MIGA) is a member of the World Bank Group. MIGA is designed to encourage the flow of foreign private investment to and among developing countries by issuing guarantees against noncommercial risks and carrying out investment promotion activities.

During World Bank fiscal year 2004, MIGA issued 55 guaranteed contracts, with a maximum aggregate contingent liability of $1.1 billion. Since MIGA's inception, estimated foreign direct investment facilitated totals more than $50 billion.

Negotiations of MIGA's first General Capital Increase (GCI) were completed in 1998. The United States committed to contribute a total of $30 million in paid-in capital and nearly $140 million in callable capital over three years. The agreement included commitments from MIGA on a range of policy issues of substantial importance to the United States, including environment, information disclosure, labor, and creation of an inspection function for greater accountability and transparency. In 2000, the Administration sought and received congressional authorization for our full participation in the MIGA GCI.

In 2006, the Administration is requesting $1.7 million to clear a portion of U.S. arrears to MIGA.

The Inter-American Development Bank (IDB) promotes sustainable economic growth and productivity, poverty reduction, private sector development, and good governance in Latin America and the Caribbean through loans and technical assistance.

In 2004, IDB made new lending commitments of $6.0 billion and gross disbursements were $4.8 billion. Since its inception in 1960, IDB has lent $133.6 billion.

IDB provides financing through: 1) the Ordinary Capital window that lends at market-based rates; and, 2) the Fund for Special Operations (FSO), which provides financing on concessional terms to the region's poorest nations.

No request is being made for the IDB or FSO in 2006.

The Inter-American Investment Corporation (IIC), established in 1984, is a member of the Inter-American Development Bank Group, whose purpose is to promote development of private small and medium sized enterprises (SMEs) in Latin America and the Caribbean. It is a legally autonomous entity whose resources and management are separate from those of the Inter-American Development Bank itself. Through direct loans and equity investments in SMEs as well as through lending to private financial intermediaries, IIC helps SMEs in the region to access the medium/long-term capital necessary to start-up, expand, or modernize their operations.

During 2004, IIC approved 31 projects totaling $163.6 million. Since its inception, the IIC has approved 349 projects for a total amount of $1.9 billion. Of these, 148 projects, representing $705.3 million, remain active.

In 2006, the Administration is requesting $1.7 million to clear a portion of U.S. arrears to the IIC.

The Asian Development Bank (ADB) fosters broad-based sustainable economic growth and development, poverty alleviation, and cooperation in the Asia/Pacific region. ADB has two main financing windows: i) the ordinary capital window and ii) the Asian Development Fund (ADF) which lends at concessional rates to the region's poorest nations.

ADF resources are derived in part from donor contributions through periodic "replenishments." In the most recent replenishment, ADF-9, the United States successfully negotiated a comprehensive package of policy reforms and pledged $461 million over four years.

ADF-9 put in place a number of important reform measures of high priority to the U.S. Donors agreed to establish a grant window for the first time, following the example of IDA and AFDF. Grants will comprise 21 percent of total assistance in the ADF-9 period. Donors also agreed to increase the weight given to good governance and strong policy performance in the system used to allocate ADF resources to borrowing countries. Internal governance has become more transparent and the Bank is making a greater effort to address the concerns of people adversely affected by Bank programs. As part of these efforts, ADB has significantly increased the resources available for anticorruption activities. With strong support from donors, management established a dedicated department to spearhead implementation of a new results measurement strategy throughout the institution. ADB continues to be strongly engaged in Afghanistan, has substantially increased its assistance for private sector development, and recently inaugurated a port security and anti-money laundering fund.

In 2004, ADB lent $4.2 billion from its ordinary capital resources and extended $1.4 billion in ADF and technical assistance resources. Since its founding in 1966, ADB has committed over $104 billion in loans. In addition, ADB has made cumulative private sector loans and equity investments of over $2.4 billion.

In 2000, the United States made the final payment to ADB's fourth general capital increase. No request is being made for ADB in 2006.

The 2006 request for ADF is for $115.25 million in budget authority for our first of four scheduled contributions under ADF-9.

The African Development Bank group is composed of i) the African Development Bank (AFDB), which lends at prevailing rates, and ii) the African Development Fund (AFDF), which provides grants and concessional loans to the poorest African countries. In 2004, AFDB approved 23 new projects amounting to about $2.3 billion. Since its inception in 1963, AFDB has financed 957 projects amounting to about $30.3 billion.

AFDF approved $1.9 billion for 99 projects in 2004. Since its inception in 1974, cumulative AFDF lending totals an estimated $21.2 billion for development projects.

The 2006 request for the African Development Bank Group includes $141.3 million in budget authority and $88.3 million in program limitations on callable capital subscriptions. The budget authority request consists of $5.6 million in paid-in capital for the seventh installment on the U.S. share of AFDB's fifth capital increase; $88.3 million in program limitations on callable capital; and $135.7 million for the first of three installments on the U.S. share of the tenth replenishment of the AFDF (AFDF-10) covering the period 2006-2008. In December 2004, the United States and other donor countries reached agreement on the tenth replenishment of the AFDF (AFDF-10) that will cover 2005-2007. The United States exercised leadership under AFDF-10 in attaining a substantial increase in grant funding under an agreed debt sustainability framework, from the existing level of about 20 percent to approximately 45 percent of available resources. The replenishment also achieved several other key policy objectives: 1) greater selectivity and effectiveness of Fund operations; 2) enhanced transparency and anti-corruption measures; and 3) greater support to post-conflict countries.

The European Bank for Reconstruction and Development (EBRD) supports market-oriented economic reform and democratic pluralism through predominately private sector lending and investments in the nations of Central and Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union. The United States and other shareholders signed the articles of agreement of EBRD on May 29, 1990, and the Bank officially began operating on April 15, 1991. In April 1996, shareholders approved a doubling of EBRD's capital base from EUR 10 billion to EUR 20 billion (approximately $26 billion) which went into effect in April 1997.

A final payment of $1.0 million is required to complete U.S. contributions of paid-in capital and clear arrears on past paid-in capital obligations.

As of the end of the third quarter of 2004, over 70 percent of the Bank's portfolio was in the private sector. Since its inception, the EBRD has provided over $30 billion in financing for over 1,000 projects, contributing to investments in the region worth $95 billion.

The 2006 request consists of $1.0 million in budget authority for paid-in capital and $2.2 million in program limitations for callable capital for the final installment on the U.S. subscription to the general capital increase.

The North American Development Bank (NADBank) provides financing for environmental infrastructure projects in the U.S.-Mexico border region. A portion of its capital also finances NAFTA-related community adjustments and investment projects in both countries. Under NADBank's charter, the United States and Mexico contributed equally to NADBank's capital—$450 million in paid-in capital and $2.55 billion in callable capital. The final U.S. installment was appropriated in 1998, and there is no paid-in request for 2006.

NADBank finances environmental infrastructure projects that have been certified by the U.S.-Mexico Border Environmental Commission (BECC), an institution designed to assist States and local communities in coordinating border clean-up. As of September 30, 2004, NADBank had approved $97.1 million in loans for 21 projects and $90.3 million in grants for technical assistance and project construction. It has also administered $516.2 million in EPA-funded grants to 54 projects in Mexico and the United States. The total investment value of all the projects to which it provides funding is approximately $2.3 billion.

In March 2002, President Bush and Mexican President Fox agreed to a set of proposals to improve the performance of NADBank and BECC in fulfilling their missions. These include measures to improve the affordability of NADBank financing, expand the geographic area of operations in Mexico, create a single Board of Directors for both institutions, and conduct a review of the project cycle.

The Multilateral Investment Fund (MIF), administered by the Inter-American Development Bank, provides grants and loans to support private-sector development and finance and labor sector reforms in Latin America and the Caribbean. Special consideration is given to reforms that encourage private foreign direct investment and promote privatization. Grants and loans are used for technical assistance to identify and resolve investment constraints, for investment in human capital, and for business infrastructure and development. Since its inception in 1992, MIF has approved 661 projects, of which MIF contribution totaled more than $900 million.

The United States made a commitment to MIF in 1992 amounting to $500 million. For 2006, $1.7 million is requested to clear a portion of arrears. Negotiations are underway for the first replenishment of MIF and are expected to be completed in early 2005. A request for the replenishment is expected for the 2007 Budget.

The International Fund for Agricultural Development (IFAD) was established in 1977 as a multilateral financial institution focused on promoting rural agricultural development in poorer countries. IFAD's specific mandate is to assist small-scale producers and subsistence farmers to increase their productivity and incomes, improve their nutritional levels, and help integrate them into larger markets.

The 2006 request is $15 million for the third scheduled contribution under IFAD's 6th replenishment (IFAD-VI). IFAD is implementing a number of key policy reforms advocated by the United States under the 6th replenishment, including: a performance-based allocation system; an increase in grants; improvements in measuring results; and implementation of an independent evaluation function.

This account provides technical assistance to other countries in support of the responsibilities of the U.S. Treasury Department to formulate, conduct and coordinate the international financial policies of the United States. The Treasury Department frequently has the lead responsibility for implementing fiscal and financial policy aspects of U.S. foreign policy toward individual countries. Technical assistance provided through this account facilitate key short- and medium-term reforms in the policy and management areas of budget, tax, government debt, financial institutions and financial crimes enforcement.

Using funding provided under SEED and FREEDOM Support Acts, U.S. Treasury Department advisors have provided policy and management advice in the areas described above to countries in Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union in their transition to market economies and democratic political structures. Since 1997, the Treasury has also provided assistance, using funding from USAID Development Assistance and the Economic Support Fund, to more than 50 governments on a global basis. The flexibility provided by direct funding permits the Department to be responsive when governments make decisions to implement key fiscal and financial reforms, and allows it to act quickly to help select governments strengthen public sector fiscal and financial institutions during crucial transition periods toward market-oriented economies. In addition, Treasury technical assistance is increasingly being deployed in post-conflict situations.

The proposed $20.0 million appropriation will fund resident advisors, including program related administrative costs and intermittent experts in support of the resident advisors. This appropriation will permit continuation of the program in countries outside Central and Eastern Europe and the Former Soviet Union, including implementation of programs in Asia, Africa, and Central and Latin America, as well as continued technical assistance in anti-terrorism and anti-money laundering. The Treasury Department will continue to coordinate activities with international financial institutions and with USAID, the Department of State, and other relevant U.S. Government agencies when determining where its technical assistance program can have the greatest positive impact.

The Global Fund to Fight AIDS, Tuberculosis and Malaria (Global Fund) account exists to obligate and disburse U.S. contributions to the Global Fund that come from appropriations within the Department of Health and Human Services, the U.S. Agency for International Development, and the Department of State. The Global Fund's creation became a 2002 Presidential Initiative after being called for by the UN Secretary General in April 2001. Declarations and financial commitments were issued prior to, during and after the groundbreaking UN General Assembly Special Session on HIV/AIDS in June 2001 and at the G8 Summit in Genoa in July 2001. The Global Fund was initiated with the first contribution from the United States in 2001 and officially established in January 2002.

The purpose of the Global Fund is to attract, manage, and disburse additional resources through a new public-private partnership that make a sustainable and significant contribution to the reduction of infections, illness and death, thereby mitigating the impact caused by HIV/AIDS, tuberculosis and malaria in countries in need. The Global Fund pursues an integrated and balanced approach covering prevention, treatment, and care and support in dealing with these three diseases. The Global Fund seeks to establish a simplified, rapid, innovative process with efficient and effective disbursement mechanisms, minimizing transaction costs and operating in a transparent and accountable manner based on clearly defined responsibilities. The Global Fund makes use of existing international mechanism and health plans.

Approximately $5.7 billion has been pledged to the Global Fund thus far from industrialized and developing country governments, corporations, foundations, and private individual contributions. The U.S. Government has provided a total of $1.1 billion through 2004, and will provide $347 million in 2005. An additional $87.8 million carried forward from 2004 for the purpose of a United States contribution to the Global Fund is also available for contribution in 2005 resulting from legislation limiting the U.S. Government contribution to not exceed 33 percent of total contributions. The 2006 request includes $100 million within the National Institutes of Allergy and Infectious Diseases (NIAID), $100 million within USAID's Child Survival and Health Account and $100 million from the Department of State's Global HIV/AIDS Initiative account.

In July 2000, the United States established a fund at the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development (EBRD) to support Small and Medium Enterprise (SME) financing through technical assistance to local financial institutions and credit lines for on-lending to SMEs. An allocation of $10 million was provided to EBRD from 2000 Support for Eastern European Democracies Act (SEED Act) funding, $11 million (including $1 million allocated specifically for Serbia) from 2001 SEED Act, and $5 million from 2002 SEED Act funding to support countries in Southeast Europe. In 2002, the Administration expanded the program to Freedom Support Act countries and provided $2 million from 2002 FSA funding to support SME programs in Kyrgyzstan and Georgia through this account. In addition, USAID has directly supported EBRD's activities in Kazakstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, and Ukraine with $8.3 million in assistance since 2002. In 2004, the Administration also provided $2.5 million in FSA funds to support the Russian Small Business Fund (RSBF) at the EBRD, which works to strengthen the capacity of Russian banking institutions to lend to micro and small businesses and to directly provide financing to these businesses. The total U.S. contribution to the RSBF is $4.2 million.

Three main activities will be supported under this program: 1) providing debt finance to SMEs by on-lending through eligible banks; 2) providing technical assistance to promote sound business practices and good governance at participating banks; and 3) providing technical assistance to identify legal, regulatory, and policy impediments and improving the operating environment for SMEs.

Debt Reduction.—The Administration requests $99.75 million for bilateral Heavily Indebted Poor Country (HIPC) and poorest country debt reduction, HIPC Trust Fund, and Tropical Forest Conservation Act debt reduction programs.

Multilateral Debt Reduction Programs for the Poorest.—For the poorest countries, debt reduction provides an incentive to implement macro-economic and structural reforms necessary to improve economic performance and creditworthiness. Debt relief, economic reform and poverty reduction contribute to economic growth and social development, which can mean expanded opportunities for trade and investment for the United States. For the poorest and most heavily indebted countries, the United States will continue support for the Paris Club of official creditors and provide additional relief complementary to the enhanced HIPC Initiative. The Administration requests funding for the cost of bilateral HIPC and poorest country debt reduction and for HIPC Trust Fund, which is administered by the World Bank and helps regional development banks and other multilateral institutions to meet their costs of debt relief. The United States has pledged a total of $150 million to meet the additional financing needs of the HIPC Trust Fund consistent with the President's commitment at the 2002 G-8 Summit in Kananaskis, Canada to fund a share of HIPC financing shortfalls.

Tropical Forest Debt Relief.—The Tropical Forest Conservation Act (TFCA) received strong bipartisan support and was signed into law by the President in July, 1998. Modeled after the Enterprise for the Americas Initiative (EAI), P.L. 105-214, as amended, allows the Administration to reduce outstanding concessional U.S. Agency for International Development and P.L. 480 debt stocks to support conservation of the endangered tropical forests and promote economic reforms in eligible countries. Debt relief or buybacks in eligible countries will leverage payment of local currency resources to support programs to conserve tropical forests. TFCA debt reduction agreements have been concluded with eight countries: Bangladesh; Belize; El Salvador; Peru; the Philippines; Colombia; Jamaica; and Panama (two agreements). In total, these agreements will generate over time more than $95 million to support forest conservation.

Development Assistance Programs.—This account supports Agency efforts to promote transformational development in less-developed and selected middle-income countries. Transformational development brings far-reaching, fundamental changes in governance and institutional capacity, human capacity, and economic structure. Such development helps a country sustain further economic and social progress without depending on foreign aid. The goal of achieving transformational development pertains to stable developing countries which have significant need for concessional assistance and are committed to promoting economic freedom, ruling justly, and investing in people.

- Promoting economic freedom involves: support for increased agricultural production and food security, expanded access to micro-credit, expanded and strengthened private markets and public institutions that support these markets so as to improve the business, trade and investment climate, and environmental protection.

- Ruling justly involves: efforts to strengthen the rule of law and respect for human rights, encourage credible and competitive political processes, promote the development of a politically active civil society and encourage more transparent and accountable government institutions.
- Investing in people focuses on: developing human resources, including improved and expanded access to basic education, especially for girls and women. It also includes support for higher education and training to produce skilled human resources needed for development.

The Administration's request includes funding to leverage the resources of private sector and non-governmental organization and other donors to achieve a much greater level of impact than would be possible with appropriated U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID) resources alone. Principal among the approaches to leverage additional resources is USAID's Global Development Alliance (GDA) business model which uses public-private alliances to address issues of economic freedom and investing in people. GDA recognizes that private enterprise and civil society have significant and growing resources and an expanded stake in international development.

This account provides funds to promote country-specific strategies that build on common, region-wide strategic goals, including economic restructuring, democratic transition, and social stabilization. Authorized Support for Assistance for Eastern Europe and the Baltic States (AEEB) programs concentrate on a) the development and strengthening of institutions and civic action necessary for sustainable democracy; b) the development of market economies and a strong private sector; and c) the improvement of the basic quality of life in selected areas. This interagency program is managed by AEEB coordinator, who is located in the State Department's Bureau of European and Eurasian Affairs.

AEEB assistance is now focused primarily on Southeast Europe, with the single largest program designed for Serbia. The United States is contributing to international efforts toward recovery from the conflict with Milosevic through building effective governance and a functioning economy in the successor states of the former Yugoslavia. While implementation of the Dayton Accords still requires significant, albeit diminishing, support in Bosnia, two wars in the region in recent years have demonstrated the need for a special effort to provide for peaceful cooperation among neighbors. The Stability Pact of Southeast Europe builds on the country programs in the Balkans to help stabilize the region as a whole and prepare for integration into the European and international mainstream. It is anticipated that 2006 will be the last year of AEEB assistance for Bulgaria and Croatia.

This account provides funds for a program of assistance to the independent states that emerged from the former Soviet Union. This request will fund continuing programs of U.S. Agency for International Development and other agencies in support of economic and democratic transitions.

Collectively, these programs for the Independent States are designed to consolidate the process of political and economic transition to market democracies, and to help address major socioeconomic dislocations where they occur during these transitions. Funds will support economic restructuring by helping to create conditions that encourage: trade and investment and private sector growth; improved government fiscal policy, revenue collection, and financial management; a market-oriented financial sector; and a more efficient energy sector and a cleaner environment. Funds will support democratic transitions by promoting citizen participation, promoting independent media establishing the rule of law, and strengthening local governments.

Program resources requested in 2006 will be aimed at: 1) enhancing local public and private institutional capacity as part of the comprehensive strategy to expand trade and investment, develop and strengthen small and medium enterprises, mobilize capital, reduce crime and corruption, and build viable civil societies; 2) mitigating the social impact of transitions in order to broaden public support for needed reforms; and 3) addressing health problems more deliberately. Assistance to central governments will be highly selective.

Funding is requested to encourage front line states of Central Asia, as well as Armenia, Azerbaijan, and Georgia to support the anti-terrorism campaign and address regional stability issues. At the same time, we will continue the process of phasing down economic assistance to Russia, begun in 2004. A new approach to analyzing reform progress in FSA countries will be used to consider country phase-out decisions.

The International Disaster and Famine Assistance (IDFA) account provides funds for the management of humanitarian relief, rehabilitation, and reconstruction assistance to foreign countries struck by natural and man-made disasters and supports disaster prevention, mitigation and preparedness. USAID’s program has been placing increasing emphasis on complex emergencies, a product of ethnic and national tensions leading to civil strife and the displacement of large numbers of people. The request for 2006 will be used to provide relief services and commodities including temporary shelter, blankets, supplementary food, potable water, medical supplies and agricultural rehabilitation aid, including seeds and hand tools. The request includes $100 million for additional humanitarian needs in Sudan.

The 2006 request includes $300 million for emergency food assistance. This funding will permit USAID to provide food assistance in the most timely and efficient manner to the most critical emergency food crises. This assistance will be used in those instances where the rapid use of cash assistance is critical to saving lives.

Use of the $20 million for famine prevention and relief is subject to Presidential approval and is intended to support early intervention to either preempt famine or mitigate the impact.

This account was established in 2003 for capital investments in information technology (IT)-related capital projects; $21.9 million is being requested for this purpose in 2006. Funds from the Capital Investment Fund will only be made available after USAID has demonstrated a successful business case for its IT investments.

In this account, the Administration is also requesting funds for USAID's per capita contribution to the Capital Security Cost Sharing Program (CSCS) administered by the Department of State Overseas Building Operations. The CSCS program is designed to accelerate the construction of secure, safe, functional facilities for all U.S. Government Personnel overseas. The funding also provides for the cost of furniture for USAID personnel scheduled to move into embassy compounds in 2006.

Programs funded by this account support critical interventions in priority fragile states that further efforts at stabilization, reform, and post-conflict reconstruction. Fragile states require early action and a fully integrated yet flexible response when countries are coping with periods of crisis.

The fundamental problem in fragile states is weak governance that undermines the state's ability to manage internal conflict, deliver basic services to its citizens, or prevent famine. Therefore the primary objective is to establish the basis for meaningful development by increasing stability and restoring minimal democratic governance and economic functions.

In priority crisis countries the Office of Transition Initiatives (OTI) will support, strengthen, or preserve democratic institutions or processes, revitalize basic infrastructure and foster the peaceful resolution of conflict. The 2006 budget requests $50 million for OTI.

Another $275 million of the 2006 request will be used for Afghanistan, Ethiopia, Haiti, and Sudan. The distinguishing feature of programs supported by this account is the focus on integrated, near-term programs to support stabilization. The account would seek short-term impact and visible results while also laying the foundation for longer-term structural reform and development. Essential to this approach is the flexibility to develop and/or adjust programs in response to rapidly changing circumstances.

The Fund, authorized by section 635(m) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, finances on a reimbursable basis the costs associated with providing administrative support to other agencies under the International Cooperative Administrative Support Services (ICASS) program overseas. Under ICASS, each agency pays a proportional share of the cost of those services they have agreed to receive. Working through inter-agency councils at post, all agencies have a say in determining which services the USAID mission will provide, defining service standards, reviewing costs, and determining funding levels. The Fund is also used for deposit of rebates from the use of Federal credit cards, the deposits then being made available for start-up costs at new ICASS service provider missions and for technical support to missions currently providing services.

The Development Credit Authority (DCA) permits the Agency to substitute credit assistance (loans and loan guarantees) for grant assistance to achieve any of the economic development purposes authorized by the Congress in Part I of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as amended. Subject to limits in annual appropriations acts and the normal congressional notification processes, disciplined credit assistance under DCA is principally intended for use where a development activity is financially viable, where borrowers are creditworthy, and where there is true risk sharing with private lenders. DCA augments grant assistance by mobilizing private capital in developing countries for sustainable development projects. In 2006 U.S. Agency for International Development plans to use some of this authority for supporting activities such as rural electrification, agribusiness lending, and loans for higher education and privatized health clinics.

Appropriated funds provide for the costs of the U.S. Trade and Development Agency (TDA), which include: program costs of grants for technical assistance, feasibility studies, and other project planning activities designed to implement development, trade and foreign policy objectives; and, the cost of managing TDA programs. TDA effectively uses funds transferred to it from other international affairs agencies to impact transportation safety and security, trade capacity building, infrastructure development, and reconstruction work in Iraq and Afghanistan. TDA funds activities in developing and middle-income nations to foster economic development and to encourage the use of U.S. private sector technology, goods, and services in project implementation.

Peace Corps' operating expenses will provide direct and indirect support for Americans engaged in voluntary services in approximately 74 countries worldwide in 2006. The support will include the necessary safety and security provisions for the Peace Corps' Volunteers, trainees, and staff. By September 2006, there will be approximately 7,800 Americans enrolled in the Peace Corps. The Volunteers help fill the trained manpower needs of developing countries and encourage self-sustaining development of skilled manpower. The Peace Corps promotes mutual understanding between the peoples of the developing world and the United States and focuses the attention of the American people on the benefits of volunteerism. Peace Corps Volunteers work primarily in the areas of agriculture, business development, education, environment, health and HIV/AIDS, and youth.

Established by the 1969 Foreign Assistance Act, the Inter-American Foundation (IAF) supports grassroots development initiatives in Latin America and the Caribbean with a direct impact on the lives and the capacity for self reliance of people at the lowest economic levels. In 2006, IAF will continue its strategic programming approaches that focus on: 1) building partnerships among grassroots organizations, non-governmental organizations, local governments, and private enterprises to foster social and economic development at the local level; and, 2) increasing the participation of the region's citizens in the public, deliberative processes for their countries' development and of national private business sector resources in grassroots development initiatives. This strategy supports the President's priorities in Latin America and the Caribbean to reduce poverty, strengthen local democratic practice and stem the flow of illegal migration. IAF will continue to leverage additional local resources for development through its network of 52 Latin American corporations and corporate foundations that have joined IAF in supporting grassroots development. IAF will continue to apply its system of measuring the results of its grants and identify and disseminate good practice and lessons to new private sector contributors and development practitioners. Using results and evaluation information, IAF will incorporate lessons learned into its own strategic planning and grant decision-making processes. IAF will continue to implement an integrated program management information system which will increase efficiency in its operations and facilitate grant monitoring and results reporting.

Development Grants.—This activity includes grants made directly to local private, non-profit organizations conducive to working in partnerships with businesses and local authorities to carry out development projects in Latin America and the Caribbean. In 2005, IAF plans to award approximately 75 new grants and 20 supplemental grants in 14 countries.

Evaluations and Other Activities.—This activity covers grant results assessments of all grants and full evaluations of a sample of the grants supported by IAF. This activity also includes the publications that convey IAF's partnership, corporate social responsibility and grassroots democracy experiences, and lessons to businesses, development practitioners, members of partnerships, and other donors.

Program Management and Operation.—This activity includes Foundation expenses for salaries and benefits, travel, reimbursable service agreements with other Federal agencies, rent, service contracts, and other support costs.

The African Development Foundation (ADF), a public corporation, is the only agency of the U.S. Government that directly supports community-based initiatives to alleviate poverty and promote sustainable development in Africa. Through its grant program, ADF provides Africans with the resources necessary to identify and solve their own problems. ADF relies on participatory development approaches that strengthen local capacity, foster ownership of development projects, and promote self-help and empowerment.

In 2006, ADF will provide grants to recipients in fifteen African countries, either directly to grassroots groups or through non-governmental organizations. These grants will promote the following three strategic goals:

1) Advance broad-based, sustainable development and empowerment of the poor in Africa.—ADF will promote micro- and small-enterprise development to generate income and employment. ADF will increase participation of African grassroots enterprises and producer groups in trade and investment relationships with the U.S. and within Africa. ADF will support community-based HIV/AIDS prevention and mitigation.

2) Expand local capacity to promote and support grassroots, participatory development.—ADF will build self-supporting, sustainable, local community development Partner Organizations that provide technical assistance and support to grassroots groups. ADF will develop and replicate new models for community reinvestment. ADF will continue to leverage additional funding through strategic partnerships with national and local governments, other donor agencies, and the local private sector. ADF will encourage African governments and other donors to increase utilization of participatory development "best practices".

3) Enhance American assistance and strengthen U.S. relations with Africa.—ADF will seek to leverage resources for grassroots development through strategic partnerships with the U.S. private sector international donors, host governments, and other U.S. Government agencies. ADF will work toward improving program and policy coordination with U.S. foreign assistance and foreign policy agencies.

As part of a general increase in International Monetary Fund (IMF) quota resources, on November 17, 1998, the United States consented to an increase in its quota to SDR 37,149.3 million (about $52 billion at that time). The increase in the U.S. quota involves no net budget outlays. Similarly, use by the IMF of the quota commitment does not result in net budget outlays because the United States receives an increase in its international monetary reserves corresponding to any transfer of dollars under the U.S. quota subscription. The United States can use these interest-bearing reserves to meet a balance of payments financing need.

The General Arrangements to Borrow (GAB) were established in 1962 by 10 industrial countries, including the United States, as a means of supplementing IMF's resources when needed to forestall or cope with an impairment of the international monetary system. GAB members agreed in early 1983 to increase their financial commitments to GAB from approximately SDR 6.3 billion to SDR 17 billion, with the U.S. share rising from $2.0 billion to approximately $6.4 billion.

In January 1997, the Executive Board of the IMF approved the creation of the New Arrangements to Borrow (NAB) to further supplement resources available to IMF to forestall or cope with an impairment of the international monetary system or to deal with an exceptional situation that poses a threat to the stability of the system. NAB became effective on November 17, 1998. In 2004, twenty-six countries and institutions participated in NAB through a set of credit arrangements with IMF totaling SDR 34 billion (about $48 billion on the date of establishment), of which the U.S. share is approximately SDR 6.6 billion (about $10.2 billion at end-December 2004). Although GAB continues to exist, the sum of loans advanced under NAB and GAB cannot exceed SDR 34 billion. The sum of U.S. loans advanced under both arrangements cannot exceed the U.S. share of NAB.

Financing extended by the United States under GAB and NAB does not result in any net budget outlays because such financing results in an equivalent increase in U.S. international reserve assets in the form of a claim on IMF.

During 1998 (July), IMF made one call on GAB participants in support of an assistance program for Russia, of which the U.S. share was approximately $483 million. On December 15, 1998, IMF made a call on NAB participants in support of an assistance program for Brazil, of which the U.S. share was approximately $860 million. GAB and NAB loans were paid back in full on March 11, 1999. Since 1999, no calls were made on GAB or NAB participants, and no loans were outstanding at the end of the fiscal year.
